Mike McKee

ADA, Okla. – Six Chickasaw Nation elected officials took the oath of office October 1 at the Chickasaw Nation Community Center in Ada.

Incumbent Chickasaw tribal legislators Toby Perkins, David Woerz, Nancy Elliott and Shana Tate Hammond, and incumbent Supreme Court Justice Barbara Ann Smith, each reaffirmed their oath of office.

Newly-elected legislator Scott Wood, of Tishomingo, was sworn in as representative of Tishomingo District, Seat 1.

Chickasaw Nation Supreme Court Chief Justice Mark Colbert administered the oath.

Mr. Perkins and Mrs. Elliott, both of Ada, represent Pontotoc District, Seats 1 and 2, respectively. Mr. Woerz and Mrs. Hammond, both of Ardmore, represent Pickens District, Seats 1 and 4, respectively.

Justice Smith, of Newcastle, was reaffirmed to Seat 2 on the Chickasaw Nation Supreme Court.

Legislators and tribal justices are elected to three-year terms.

The Chickasaw Tribal Legislature is comprised of 13 members, elected by voters from the Chickasaw Nation's four legislative districts: Panola, Pickens, Pontotoc and Tishomingo.

The Supreme Court consists of three Supreme Court Justices elected by popular vote of voters in all districts of the Chickasaw Nation.

Apartment project under way

THACKERVILLE, OKLA. – Governor Bill Anoatubby was joined by tribal officials, local officials and dozens of area residents for an October 17 ground breaking ceremony for a 252-unit apartment home complex.

The apartment homes are the first phase of Central Park at WinStar Village. Subsequent phases of the 220-acre community near the intersection of Interstate 35 and Rogers Road in Love County will offer retail and dining options.

“These new apartments will help meet the growing need for affordable housing in the Thackerville area,” Gov. Anoatubby said. “Central Park at WinStar Village will offer attractive, convenient housing options for WinStar employees and other Love County residents. We believe our investment in this community will have a positive impact on the local economy by attracting other new businesses to the area.”

The apartment community will be comprised of several two-story buildings with one-, two- and three-bedroom options. Situated in the middle of the apartment homes will be a nine-acre park, Central Park clubhouse and pool.

Bill Lance, CEO of Chickasaw Nation Division of Commerce, said the inspiration for the park concept came from Central Park in New York and Paris’ Place des Vosges, home of Victor Hugo. He said the international landmarks tie in the ‘world’ theme prevalent in the design of neighboring WinStar World Casino.

He also said the native stone used in architectural details in the design of WinStar Golf Course and Academy will be used in the apartment home design.

“The continuation of certain architectural and design elements will bring completeness to the neighboring properties and provide a cohesive look to all three properties,” said Lance.

Lance also said the general contractor will be Dallas-based Andres Construction, and the architect is Rick Brown with RBA, based in Cape Town, South Africa. More information about Central Park at WinStar Village can be found at www.CentralParkWinStar.com.

Lisa John appointed administrator of Division of History and Culture

LISA JOHN

ADA, Okla. - Governor Bill Anoatubby has announced the appointment of Lisa John as administrator of the Chickasaw Nation Division of History and Culture.

Mrs. John has been employed with the Chickasaw Nation since 1994 and has served as administrator of the Chickasaw Nation Division of Education since 2005.

“We are confident that Lisa John will do an excellent job leading the Division of History and Culture,” Gov. Anoatubby said. “She understands the importance of embracing our history and culture. She has the experience and expertise needed to continue effectively educating others about our culture for generations to come.”

As administrator of the Division of Education, Mrs. John oversaw child care, Head Start, numerous education services and support programs, and vocational rehabilitation. She worked to develop additional Chickasaw language programs for children and incorporate the Chickasaw language into the design of the tribe’s Child Care Center in Ada.

As administrator of the Division of History and Culture,

Mrs. John will oversee the Chickasaw Cultural Center, museums and libraries, Chickasaw language programs, Cultural Resources, and the Chickasaw Horticulture Department.

Ms. John said she was “very thankful” Gov. Anoatubby appointed her to her new post.

“Our culture and history are important because it tells who we are and it unifies us as a people. It makes us a family,” Mrs. John said. “We can’t lose sight of what our ancestors did for us and how the Chickasaw people today are paving the road for generations to come. I am honored to have the opportunity to promote the rich culture and history of the Chickasaw people.”

Prior to her appointment as administrator of the Division of Education, Mrs. John served as administrator of the Chickasaw Nation Division of Self-Governance from 2001 to 2005. As administrator of Self-Governance, she helped oversee the development of the Chickasaw Lighthorse Police Department.

Mrs. John graduated from the University of Oklahoma with a bachelor’s degree in political science in 1991. She earned a master’s degree in public administration from OU in 2007.

Ms. John is involved with several organizations including Oklahoma Center for Non-Profits, Oklahoma Champions for Early Opportunities, Ada City Schools Foundation, National Indian Education Association, Chickasaw Nation Head Start Governing Board, and American Association of Public Administrators. She was appointed by former Oklahoma Gov. Brad Henry to the Oklahoma Advisory Council on Indian Education.

Possibility of 'sequestration' calls for thoughtful planning

The modern history of the Chickasaw Nation has been one of growing self-reliance, willingness to engage new ideas and trust in our people's skills and abilities to move our tribe forward.

Chickasaws have been rewarded for sticking with a good plan, and making thoughtful adjustments along the way. Walking the path toward true self-sufficiency has taken all of us working together. Our combined effort toward the common goal of serving all Chickasaws fully and well is paying great dividends.

Today, we invest tens of millions of dollars annually in health care, education, housing, economic development and so much more. We can do this because we have achieved important business goals and continue to grow our commercial base.

Prior to our tribe's period of robust economic expansion, we relied almost exclusively on resources provided us by the federal government. Those funds were, and are, provided based on promises made by the United States to the tribes long ago. While important, those resources were not sufficient to support the fundamental programs and services required by Chickasaw people. For years we scraped by on the federal funds, always knowing we would eventually achieve our goals and begin marshaling our own resources.

Working together, the seeds we planted years ago now provide a great harvest.

GOV. BILL ANOATUBBY

Governor,
the Chickasaw Nation

apt definition of what could occur.

At the beginning of 2013, significant reductions in federal expenditures are due to automatically occur.

The resources we generate from our commercial endeavors now provide the majority of our income. However, federal funds remain important. The Chickasaw Nation operates several programs funded in very large part by the federal government.

You have probably read in the national news about "sequestration," an action that would affect the federal funds all tribes receive. The word "sequestration" is derived from the Latin "sequestrare," which means "to set aside, surrender, remove or separate." That is an

At the same time, the deep federal income tax cuts initiated in 2003 are set to expire. Should these actions come to pass, it is expected federal revenue will jump while expenditures will decline. Some expenditures could be reduced by as much as 10 percent.

There is little doubt that if sequestration were to occur, much federal spending would be eliminated and important programs would face significant challenges. The sequestration question is very serious. No one, it may be argued, truly wants to decimate essential programs on which Americans rely daily. We are hopeful for a negotiated settlement of these tax and spending issues at the federal level.

Should sequestration occur, there is no doubt the result will affect all tribes. At the Chickasaw Nation, we are developing a plan that will lessen sequestration's impact as much as possible. We are planning ahead and carefully weighing adjustments in future operations. The tribe must be fully prepared should sequestration occur. Our goal is to shield direct services and focus intently on our core mission of serving all Chickasaws well.

Together, we have faced countless challenges over the generations. We have persevered against tremendous odds, and have flourished. The sequestration issue presents another significant challenge. As always, we will meet this challenge, united as Chickasaw people and confident in our abilities.

Ms. Hanson, along with Lorraine Edmo, tribal deputy director for the Office on Violence Against Women, toured the Chonkash Yohbi Chuka "Peaceful Heart Home" Domestic Violence Shelter. They also toured the Chickasaw Medical Center, including the newly-opened specialized exam room equipped for exams of victims of suspected sexual assault.

The tour provided an opportunity to explore the Chickasaw Nation's domestic violence and sexual assault programs.

"Thank you for your commitment to the protection of women and violence protection programs,"

Youth and Family Services administrator Jay Keel said. "We are grateful to your commitment to Indian Country and the Chickasaw Nation."

Directed by the Chickasaw Nation Youth and Family Services, the violence prevention programs provide advocacy services, shelter, transportation, career and education services, mental health counseling to victims of domestic violence and their dependents.

As director of the office on violence against women, Ms.

Hanson serves as the liaison among the Department of Justice and federal, state, tribal, and international governments on matters involving violence against women.

Guidance comes for those on whom we have relied

As we enter the holiday season, it becomes more and more exciting to realize that we have many blessings that are ours because we have been gifted with leadership. We all pray and ask for many things, along with the desire to receive guidance.

CONNIE

Chickasaw

The guidance we ask for is critical to us and we want to be empowered to accomplish the many tasks before us successfully. Whether we strive to be a better mom, dad, brother, sister, aunt, uncle or grandparent, we look for guidance.

Our guidance is often sought from those that have those special leadership skills. Like the skills our parents possess. We look to our parents at critical times in our lives to provide us with stability, wisdom, and advice, which serve as guidance.

I think the supreme guidance is provided through our Creator and that He places people in our lives who provide us this type of leadership when we need it most. I think about my parents, and especially my Grandparents. They have wisdom as our elders and they have not only seen many things, they have lived them. This experiential knowledge helps us as a nation to understand and grasp the very essence of who we are and we grow and mature with their guidance and leadership.

It is truly a blessing for me to visit with our elders and listen to the advice that I receive from so many, and yes, guidance. I think their trust in me has provided the means for me to develop my leadership skills to a level that will allow me to give more and more back to our Great Nation.

As we approach the Thanksgiving season, it warms my heart to know that not only am I thankful for my family, I am thankful for our elders and what they mean to me and the Greater Chickasaw Nation.

Remember, we are blessed with guidance, and remember that we are blessed with Leaders who will continue to move us forward on our journey as a Native People. I am proud of our heritage and I am proud of our ancestors and our elders who have helped me on my path. I believe that our path is straight and that our mornings are filled with beauty and glory for the day as we move toward strengthening our Great Nation.

God Bless, and happy holidays!

Panola citizens make strong showing at Festival

Panola District made a strong showing at the 2012 Chickasaw Nation Annual Festival! Mrs. Barbara Beshirs was a $2,000 winner in one of the cash drawings! Now that's what I call a little spending money!

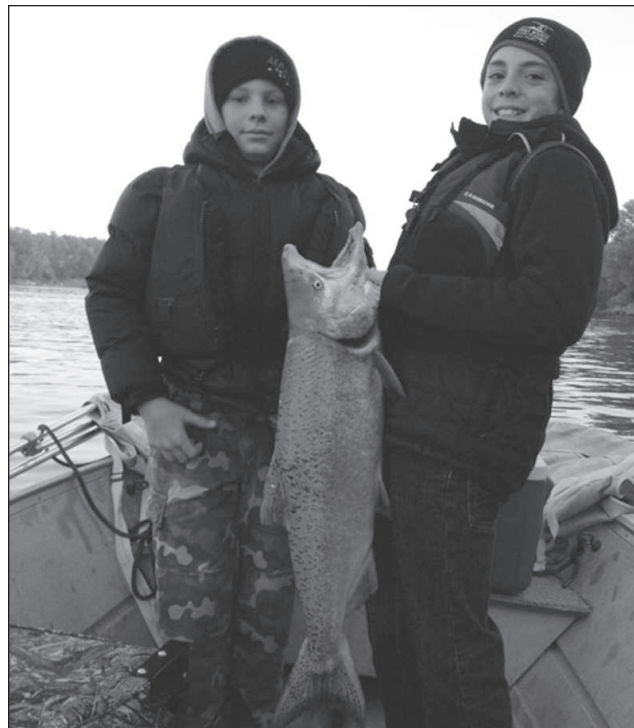

Citizens of the Panola Senior Center were on hand to cheer as she headed down the aisle to receive her cash prize! Another exciting event, Mr. Bill Duckworth rode in the parade on the Chickasaw Hall of Fame float on behalf of all Levi Colbert descendants. Earlier this year, Mr. Levi Colbert was placed in the Chickasaw Hall of Fame. It was nice to see Panola District citizens "on the receiving end" at this year's Festival.

Last month, the Northern California Chickasaw Council hosted a picnic in Fair Oaks, Calif. There were over 100 citizens and family in attendance. One of the attendees, Conner Manley, 11, shared with me that he and his cousin, Zachery Metford, 10, had gotten up at 4 a.m. and gone salmon fishing that morning long before attending the picnic. Their excursion took place at Discovery Park on the Sacramento River in the heart of Sacramento. The boys caught a 20 pound, 31-inch King Salmon. What an exciting way to start the day! The boys are the grandsons of Mr. Philip Reynolds, Chairperson for the council. Too bad I couldn't stay around for the fresh smoked salmon! Maybe next time....

And Jesus said to them, "Follow Me, and I will make you fishers of men." And they immediately left the nets, and followed Him.

Festival offers opportunity to enjoy Chickasaw art

Chukma! Hello Everyone,
For those of you who were able to attend the Annual Meeting and Festival this year, I say a hearty "Thank You," for braving the cold, rainy weather.

The thing we always say about Oklahoma weather is, "If you don't like the weather today, just wait until tomorrow. It will probably change!"

The Festival gets better every year. Our Cultural Evening this year was combined with the Arts and Cultural Awards ceremony, as well as the awards for the SEASAM art show.

We were also treated to a special presentation and unveiling of Chickasaw artist and sculptor, Mike Larsen's, breathtaking sculpture of "The Arrival," which depicts a Chickasaw family during the Removal as they arrive in their new home. The sculpture depicts four generations of a family forced to leave their ancestral home to travel hundreds of miles to an unknown place. The nine-foot tall bronze sculpture is beautiful and moving and overlooks the Amphitheater.

Thank you, Mr. Larsen, for creating such a beautiful work of art for all Chickasaws to enjoy. Congratulations to all winners of the Southeastern Art Show!

Thank you, also, to all those who entered the art show for sharing your art with the rest of us. Congratulations to Ezra Johnson, a student at Byng High School, for winning first place in the Holissochi Essay Contest, which was sponsored this year by the Chickasaw Historical Society. Congratulations also to the winners of the Heritage Preservation Research Awards, Kari Ann Lewis Chew, for Best Master's Thesis; Raymond Doherty, for Best Unpublished Article; and Karen Goodnight, Ph.D., for Best Doctoral Dissertation.

Congratulations to Emma McLeod who was acknowledged as the Silver Feather Award Recipient for her work in language preservation and her contributions to many significant projects, including "Anompilbashsha' Asilhha' Holisso: Chickasaw Prayer Book."

I also want to offer congratulations to the Dynamic Woman of the Year 2012, Mrs. Ellen Brooker, for her outstanding accomplishments in the field of education.

We have many talented and dedicated Chickasaws across the United States, and it's great that we can share in each other's successes. We have so much for which to be thankful!

Please let me know if I can help you in anyway.

Apartment complex, new Purcell Clinic work set

Hello and greetings from Legislator Mary Jo Green, Seat 5, Pontotoc District. I thought that September was a busy month, but October has been even busier!

The Chickasaw Festival was well planned, as usual, and was well attended. However, the weather didn't cooperate and the parade was chilly with light rain. Cultural Evening keeps getting better and better each year. This year it was held at the Chickasaw Cultural Center in Sulphur.

We attended the Oklahoma City Community Council meeting. Each meeting has new people attending and we commend the OKC Council for doing a good job recruiting new Chickasaw members. The annual Halloween party at TG Farms was good with lots of youth and goodies and a costume contest with the Legislators serving as judges. Young Chickasaws enjoy the Halloween party very much!

We also attended the Sacramento, California Community Council meeting. We thoroughly enjoyed meeting many Chickasaws as the meeting was very well attended. It was one of the largest Community Council events that we have ever visited.

A groundbreaking for the apartment complex at WinStar was also well attended.

We are happy to report plans for the expansion of the Purcell Clinic. The expansion will include dental care and other services that are not currently provided there.

The Legislature welcomed a new member in October. Dr. Scott Wood from Tishomingo joined us as he was elected over the summer. I also want to honor and thank Scott Colbert for serving the Legislature for 10 years. We are so blessed to have such qualified and caring Chickasaws serve us as Legislators.

I would love to hear from you! My email address is mary.green@chickasaw.net and my address and telephone number are listed elsewhere in this and every issue of the Chickasaw Times and on the Chickasaw Nation web site. My articles are also located on the web site.

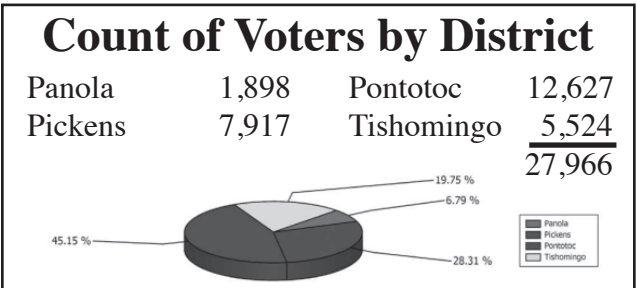

Until next time, I wish God's blessings on all of our people. Thank you.

Indigenous Bolivian women are impressive workers!

Happy Fall! This year's Annual Meeting and Festival was another huge success. It's nice to reflect back on all the accomplishments of the previous year and look forward to the projects and services for the year to come. Governor Anoatubby and Lt. Governor Keel provided inspiring and insightful speeches, demonstrating their passion for our tribe. A special "thanks" to both of them for their hard work and dedication to improving the lives of the Chickasaw people.

I recently traveled to La Paz, Bolivia on a mission trip to help build a retirement home. Sixteen of us from the Ardmore area dedicated our time and faith to this construction project for fellow Christians, a world away.

A large part of the "hands-on" mission included spending time with the indigenous people of the area. Several elders from the Aymara group of Indians were on-site each day to help.

Their hard work simply amazed me. Women, ages 50 - 70 hauled five-gallon buckets of water from the bottom of a steep hill back up the hill several times a day. They are so content with their lives. It made several us appreciate what we have and remind ourselves of the difference between "want" and "need."

What a blessing to be able to spend time with another group of Indians and learn from them.

Northern California visit offers a great experience

It's always a great experience to visit Chickasaws who live outside the Chickasaw Nation. I recently made the trip, along with several of my fellow legislators, to Sacramento, California where we had a great get-together with Chickasaws from the Northern California region.

What a wonderful group of people! They all made us feel very welcome, and several of us made family connections.

There were probably more than 100 Chickasaws at the Northern California Council gathering. It was absolutely wonderful to meet so many Chickasaws so far from my home!

The Northern California citizens were great about sharing information with us, and all were very upbeat about the tribe and the progress being made. Many commented on the At-Large programs that offer important things to Chickasaws living outside our boundaries.

As your legislator, I consider it very important to meet face-to-face with as many citizens as possible. Of course, that means travel! But the travel is very much worth it. Talking directly with the Chickasaws I serve helps me focus on the things important to citizens.

When we discuss programs, services and new initiatives we want to start, it's imperative we have the input of At-Large citizens. By talking directly with the Northern California Chickasaws, I came away with a very good sense of what is important to the people.

I believe the other legislators who made the trip to Northern California with me - Mary Jo Green, Toby Perkins, Nancy Elliott, Connie Barker, Steve Woods and Beth Alexander - shared the same great experience I had. It was as if we had all met before - and in many cases, we had!

But even meeting Chickasaws with whom I had not previously talked, there was a real kinship felt right away. No matter where you go in the world, there is such a special connection when you meet a fellow Chickasaw. We all know our unique history, and we are all proud of it.

I have been following up on several requests I received during my time in California and it feels great to be able to reach out and really help fellow Chickasaws. As your legislator, that's my job! I always work to be responsive to the people I serve.

If you live outside the Chickasaw Nation, I encourage you to become engaged with your tribe. You'll be so glad you did! There is so much to be gained from establishing a strong tie to the Chickasaw Nation. You can start today!

When you need me, please call. I look forward to talking with you!

Chokma,
I hope all is well with you and your family.
October was a great month, and we kicked it off right with the Annual Meeting and Festival. The weather Saturday was less than ideal but it certainly didn't seem to dampen the mood. I had a wonderful time visiting with everyone throughout the week and really enjoyed Thursday's Cultural Evening. The unveiling of "The Arrival," a sculpture by Mike Larsen was very special. The SEASAM show is something I really enjoy, and the level of talent just seems to get better every year.

Congratulations to incoming Chickasaw Princess, Autumn Michelle Underwood, Junior Princess, Chelsea Wedlow, and Little Miss Chickasaw, Payton Robertson. I was very impressed with the talent and poise each young lady exhibited. I would also like to thank the outgoing Chickasaw Royalty, Nacobi Walker, Raechell Meely, and Ke-Ke Factor for doing a tremendous job representing the Chickasaw Nation in their travels across the country.

The weekend after the Festival, Alesha and I attended the Northern California Community Council's picnic and gathering in Fair Oaks, Calif. I want to thank Phil Reynolds and the council for putting together such a fantastic event. There were over 100 in attendance, it was a gorgeous day, and when Chickasaws get together, it's always a good time.

I hope you have the opportunity to spend time with loved ones this Thanksgiving. I am very thankful for my family and friends. I am especially grateful to our military men and women around the world for their service in protecting our country. I pray for their safe return home.

Exceptional Chickasaws recognized at Arts & Culture Awards

Brooker is 'Dynamic Woman;' McLeod earns Silver Feather

Chickasaw educator Ellen Brooker received the Dynamic Woman of the Year Award during the October 4 Arts and Culture Awards ceremonies. Gov. Bill Anoatubby presents Mrs. Brooker a traditional beaded collar in frame to recognize her achievement.

SULPHUR, Okla. - A Chickasaw educator, a native speaker of the Chickasaw language, and Southeastern artists were among those recognized during the Chickasaw Nation Arts and Culture Awards Oct. 4 at the Chickasaw Cultural Center.

Mrs. Ellen Brooker, a long-time Chickasaw educator, was named the 2012 Dynamic Woman of the Year by Gov. Bill Anoatubby.

"Mrs. Brooker truly exemplifies what it means to be a dynamic Chickasaw woman," said Gov. Anoatubby. "She is known as a 'Holisso Pisachi' - one who teaches. Her dedication to her students and her desire to share the Chickasaw culture has led her where she is today. She is committed to her students' educations and she embodies the unconquerable spirit of the Chickasaws."

An educator for more than a quarter-century, Mrs. Brooker provides an engaging classroom through hands-on activities, field trips, creative web development and specialized programs.

Sometimes adorned in Chickasaw regalia and speaking Chickasaw phrases, Mrs. Brooker excites students about Indian history and offers a unique study of Native cultures, artifacts and storytelling. She also assists Native American students in establishing tribal affiliation, learning about traditions and seeking tribal benefits for higher education.

An avid student of Chickasaw language and culture, Mrs. Brooker is an Outstanding American Teacher award recipient, winning grant writer, department chair and respected history and social studies teacher.

Mrs. Brooker was chosen recently from among educators across the nation to participate in the Library of Congress Teaching with Primary Sources Summer Teacher Institute and has won gold performance awards for social studies.

She is a certified history and government teacher, and is engaged in gifted and talented programming and instructional technology.

Mrs. Brooker teaches at a 3,000-student San Antonio, Texas, High School.

As vice-chair of the Chickasaw Community Council of South Texas, Mrs. Brooker reaches out to other Chickasaws in her region, furthering study of Chickasaw culture, involvement in tribal activities and fundraising to provide the council's college scholarship. She has also served as an active leader in Boy Scouts of America for 11 years.

She earned her bachelor's degree from the University of Texas-San Antonio, and master's degree in curriculum and instruction from Houston Baptist University.

She and her family make their home in Atascosa, Texas.

Mrs. Brooker credited her family, co-workers and the Chickasaw Nation for the Dynamic Woman award.

"I believe I am here because I pushed the envelope in the classroom beyond what students can learn in the text book," Mrs. Brooker said. "I look at their educational future and encourage them to go beyond where they thought they could go before. It takes a village to help students be successful and I love to work with the (Chickasaw) Nation to provide the students more learning tools to keep Native history from being pushed out of our history."

Mrs. Brooker emphasized the need for more teachers who are dedicated to keeping Native history alive.

"Thank you for selecting me as the Dynamic Chickasaw Woman of the Year," she said. "It is a great honor and I hope I can continue to learn, grow and have a positive impact on others. We cannot do these things alone. It takes a Nation."

Established in 2006, the

Accomplished Chickasaw speaker

Emma McLeod honored with Silver Feather

Emma McLeod, an active member of the Chickasaw Language Committee, was presented the prestigious Silver Feather Award. Gov. Bill Anoatubby presented the award October 4 during the Arts and Culture Awards ceremonies at the Chickasaw Cultural Center.

Native Chickasaw speaker Emma McLeod was the winner of prestigious 2012 Silver Feather Award.

A long-time resident of Connerville, Okla., Mrs. McLeod is a Chickasaw native speaker. She is an active member of the Chickasaw language committee, contributing to significant projects including the Chickasaw new words project and "Anompilbashsha Asilhha Holisso: Chickasaw Prayer Book."

Mrs. McLeod has taught community classes in Ada, Okla., for several years, sharing her knowledge with community members, tribal citizens and tribal employees.

She is also a language master in the Chickasaw Master-Apprentice Program, teaching Faye McCurtain and Ellen Chapman, both of Connerville, Okla., most recently.

Ms. Chapman recently completed a three-year apprenticeship and is planning to take on her own apprentice in 2013.

"Mrs. McLeod demonstrates a deep, abiding and ongoing commitment to Chickasaw language revitalization and is a worthy candidate for the Silver Feather Award," Gov. Anoatubby said.

Mrs. McLeod accepted her award, one of the highest honors given by the Chickasaw Nation, in the Chickasaw language.

Created in 1999, the Silver Feather Award honors Chickasaws who have committed their lives to the preservation and revitalization of Chickasaw culture, language and life ways.

Past recipients include Adam Walker, Pauline Walker, Charlie Carter, Juanita Byars, Sim Greenwood, Geneva Holman, Leerene Frazier, Rose Jefferson, Stanley Smith, Marie Beck, Jerry Underwood, Catherine Pickens Willmond and Weldon Fulsom.

Writers honored for Chickasaw essays

Ezra Johnson was named the first-place winner of the Chickasaw Historical Society "Holissochi" essay award and Erica Hanna received second place. Developed this year for Chickasaw youth, essay participants drafted essays on the topic "How have Chickasaw traditions influenced my life and values."

The Holisso Center Research Fellowship was granted to Kari Ann Lewis Chew, of Newbury Park, Calif. This fellowship, for Chickasaw students or for persons studying Chickasaw history and/or culture, provides a one-week period of research to be conducted at the Holisso Center of the Chickasaw Cultural Center.

Raymond Doherty, Kari Ann Lewis Chew and Dr. Karen Goodnight were each honored with Heritage Preservation Research Awards.

Mr. Doherty received the Best Unpublished Article award for his article "On the Waters of the Coonawaugh: History of the Colbert-Walker Site." Mr. Doherty splits his time between Woodstock, N.Y. and Tupelo, Miss., where he stays on the family farm that is the Colbert-Walker site, the subject of his article.

Ms. Chew won the Best Master's Thesis award for her thesis entitled "Pomanompa' KilanompolikaChokma (It is Good that We Speak our Language): Motivations to Revitalize Chikashshanompa' (Chickasaw Language) Across Generations." She recently completed her master's degree in American Indian Studies at

Larsen sculpture at home on Chickasaw Cultural Center grounds

'Arrival' captures key moment in Chickasaw history

Gov. Bill Anoatubby and Chickasaw artist Mike Larsen after the unveiling of "The Arrival."

Chickasaw artist Mike Larsen's sculpture recently unveiled on the grounds of the Chickasaw Cultural Center captures a significant moment in Chickasaw history.

"The Arrival," a nine-foot-tall, 3,000-pound bronze, portrays a Chickasaw family arriving in Indian Territory after Removal from their homelands.

Gov. Bill Anoatubby said the piece was inspiring because it marks a new beginning.

"This sculpture is special because it captures a unique moment in time when people came from the homeland to a new place to reestablish themselves - to settle the territory - to sink their roots down in this wonderful place we now live," Gov. Anoatubby said. "These people who came here long ago were leaving a precious place, a place they called home."

"They were uprooted and they came here. They are the people who established this area. They are the ones who helped us be who we are today. It is more than a representation. It is part of who we are, and we celebrate it."

Eight Chickasaws served as models for the sculpture, including Mr. Larsen's daughter Kate and grandson Logan. Other models included Micah Hart, Kennedy Brown, George Jesse, Jeremy Wallace, Ashley Wallace and the late Pauline Walker.

"All of these people who modeled were exceedingly ready and willing to help because they understood what it meant," said Mr. Larsen. "It's not about the past. Everybody has a past and to a large degree we all have bad parts of our past. The Chickasaw people do too. But they are moving on to a future. That's what this piece is about."

All the Chickasaws portrayed in the sculpture are looking forward, except one young woman.

"Kate is the character who is looking back to the homeland, where we all came from," Mr. Larsen said. "All the rest are looking forward. There is that play of emotions. I think especially a woman after a long trek like this, would look back, not with a heavy heart necessarily, but a heart full of memories."

Kate said being involved with the sculpture and seeing the finished piece helped her feel a closer connection with her ancestors.

"It is very spiritual. . . to try to think of what they are feeling - the ones that are looking forward to the future and then - what I'm portraying is - looking back to the memories that you have," she said. "It just touches your heart."

Mr. Larsen expressed his sadness at the loss of Mrs. Walker, who was the only model not present for the unveiling. He said she felt fortunate she was portrayed in the sculpture.

"We will miss her, but she's going to be right here," Mr. Larsen said. "And we are really lucky because this depiction of her looks like her, I think. Her grandson, who is in the sculpture right behind her, comes out and spends time with her, and that's what we want. We want people to come out here and spend physical time with this piece of art.

"That's what a bronze is for - it's for touching and feeling. It's not like a painting that hangs on a wall. You can touch and feel a bronze. It doesn't do anything but add to the patina. It helps it grow. Some parts of this sculpture will become shiny. I can see (Pauline's hand) becoming shiny over the years as people come and hold it and that's fine with me. It shows people are comfortable with their feelings and with this piece."

Historic 'Colbert Flag' returns to tribe

Marcy Gray

Division of Arts & Humanities administrator Lona Barrick, left, and Chickasaw Cultural Center office manager Michelle Tingle display a historic American flag, given to Chickasaw Nation Principal Chief Levi Colbert by the U.S. government sometime in the 1820s or early 1830s. The flag was returned to the Chickasaw Nation by Oklahoma Historical Society Director Dr. Bob Blackburn during Chickasaw Cultural Evening ceremonies. The flag was found by Colbert descendants in the 1920s wrapped around a broomstick in a Tishomingo, Okla., attic. It was then donated to the Oklahoma Historical Society by Colbert descendant Judge Joe Kemp. This American flag is one of very few still surviving from the period before 1840.

Chickasaw Courage and the Strength of Your Vote!

BY CHARLES BLACKWELL | CHICKASAW NATION AMBASSADOR TO THE U.S.

As Chickasaw Americans, we are fortunate in so many ways! For example, in this season we not only get to vote in local, state, and national elections, but also we can vote in our own tribal elections. There is much to be said for the wisdom of the vote.

Before you do the physical act of voting, it's valuable to complete the mental part by thinking about, 1) why your vote is important; and, 2) for whom or what you will vote. Then you will come to appreciate the impact of your decision. It is basically American to vote. People are literally giving their lives, even as you read this, to exercise a right to vote. This is the time in your life when you can have a direct impact on what this country is and what its leadership does. Voting is an opportunity to think and act independently and objectively as you look ahead at least four years.

Since I first started exercising my personal right to vote over half a century ago, I've taken great pride to vote as a Chickasaw American, also of Choctaw heritage. As individual Indians, we often don't have the money to give to a campaign; we simply have our vote. The vote is the most important.

Over one million of our Indian family, tribal friends and national Native neighbors are simply too lazy or believe that it's not worth the effort it takes to vote. They also believe their vote will just get lost in the crowd. These non-voters couldn't be more wrong! As the years have passed, the "Indian" vote has developed more impact and greater meaning. Voting is an act of public and personal expression that creates strength.

For example, in 2002, in South Dakota on the Oglala Lakota reservation, before the Native vote was counted, Tim Johnson was losing his race for re-election to the U.S. Senate. The Oglala Lakota people realized that while they did not have much money to contribute to Sen. Johnson's re-election, they did, each one, have a vote as a citizen of South Dakota. They had made a strong registration drive to get-out-the-vote.

The Oglala Lakota "Sioux" vote came in after midnight and re-elected Sen. Tim Johnson in South Dakota by a very narrow margin of just over 500 votes! Sen. Johnson had always been and continues to be a great friend of Indian Country. Oglala Lakota voters spoke for all of us by exercising their vote.

Similar things have happened in Montana, New Mexico, and other states where the American Indian vote has a strong impact as, indeed, it does in Oklahoma.

When my mother was born in 1919, women, especially Indian women, did not have the right to vote. While non-Indian women got the vote in 1920, Indian citizens didn't get the right until as late as the 1940s.

The privilege of living in a democracy is something we are not always disposed to fully appreciate. My grandparents, Charles and Vivian McGillberry, would drive all the way back to Tishomingo from South Dakota, where they were working, to cast their ballots! We have to be aware of the hard-earned privilege and exercise it.

Take a look at our own Chickasaw tribal leadership elections. Our leadership has grown more experienced and directed with time and service. Get out and vote! Vote your conscience with strong Chickasaw spirit!

Chickasaw storyteller Glenda Galvan honored by AARP

OKLAHOMA CITY - A Chickasaw elder was recently honored by the American Association of Retired Persons for her outstanding contributions to Indian culture, language and education.

Glenda Galvan is a fox clan storyteller. She has worked for the Chickasaw Nation for 26 years and was the first curator and repatriation representative for the tribe. She has also served on the Oklahoma Museum Association, Mountain-Plains Museums Association, Smithsonian Institution, Institute of Museum and Library Services and the Sam Noble Museum of Natural History boards.

Mrs. Galvan's works have been published by The Smithsonian Institution, National Park Service, Wonderland Press, Chickasaw Press and Chelsea House Publishers. She recently published two children's books in both English and Chickasaw and has presented stories at the National Museum of the American Indian.

Thirty-five Indian tribes located in Oklahoma joined with the AARP October 2 to celebrate the lives of elders at the Fourth Annual AARP Indian Elder Honors.

Tribal officials, friends and family members converged on the National Cowboy and Western Heritage Museum along with AARP state, regional and national officials to recognize Native American elders who have impacted their tribes, communities and state.

Mrs. Galvan often represents the Chickasaw Nation traveling the country sharing her culture and traditional southeastern stories.

Native Explorers at Woodbine Farms

Fifty-five Chickasaw students, parents and grandparents attended the Native Explorers first quarterly meeting on Saturday, October 13, at Woodbine Farms in Ardmore. The day's activities included a petting zoo, maze, corn launch and hay ride. Dr. Kent Smith, program creator and biology professor at Oklahoma State University, was on-hand to provide insight into this year's Native Explorers curriculum.

Program focuses on critical state issues

Chickasaw official selected for Leadership Oklahoma

LISA JOHN

ADA, Okla.—Chickasaw citizen and newly-appointed administrator of the Chickasaw Nation Division of History and Culture, Lisa John, was recently selected for the 2012-2013 Leadership Oklahoma class.

"I am honored and excited about being a part of Leadership Oklahoma," Mrs. John said, "I am looking forward to the opportunity to learn more about other areas of Oklahoma, our common goals and diverse struggles."

Comprised of leaders from a multitude of professional fields and backgrounds, Leadership Oklahoma members are people actively seeking solutions for issues facing all Oklahomans.

Each year, members of Leadership Oklahoma's current class meet for 10 two-day sessions, with the purpose of effecting positive change for the betterment Oklahoma.

From the epidemic of parental absenteeism to limited resources and keeping up with 21st century technology, Mrs. John's seven years of experience as administrator for the Chickasaw Nation Division of Education, gives her a unique and informed perspective to share with fellow Leadership Oklahoma members

"The rate of absenteeism is troubling," Mrs. John said. "If we can't get kids to school, we can't teach them. There is a growing disconnect between parents and their children's education. When parents show dedication and enthusiasm in a child's education, it is reflected in the child's progress."

Mrs. John contends students must understand that their educational success is important. Parents can make lasting and positive impacts on their children's futures simply by nurturing and maintaining a relationship with schools and teachers.

Throughout her tenure as Education administrator, Mrs. John actively sought new and inventive programs aimed at engaging students.

In 2005, Mrs. John implemented the Chickasaw Nation's first "Smart Board" technology into the tribe's Head Start and Child Care programs.

A year later, she led the charge to incorporate more math and science education into the Chickasaw Nation education curriculum. Her efforts led to an expansion of the Nation's Aviation and Space Academy, the Johnson Space Camp and FIRST Robotics program.

Under Mrs. John's leadership, a 7,000 square-foot innovative learning facility housing the Chickasaw Nation Science, Technology and Math Academy opened in April 2011.

As a Leadership Oklahoma member, Mrs. John will also have the opportunity to share the Native American experience in Oklahoma's history with fellow leaders from around the state.

"Right now textbooks do not provide enough information about the Native American role in the development of Oklahoma," Mrs. John said. "Many students do not know native tribes helped build the state."

Mrs. John and the Chickasaw Nation are dedicated to cultivating strong partnerships with Oklahoma schools and educating young people on the lasting impact the tribes have had in the state.

"We want all students in Oklahoma to receive an education that is important to them as Oklahomans, and one that help them understand the unique relationship between the state and the tribes," Mrs. John commented.

Mrs. John earned a bachelor's degree in political science in 1991 from the University of Oklahoma. In 2007, she received a master's degree in public administration from OU.

Before her seven years with the Division of Education, Mrs. John served as administrator of the Chickasaw Nation Division of Self-Governance.

Mrs. John serves on the Oklahoma Advisory Council on Indian Education, National Indian Education Association, Oklahoma Center for Non-profits and Oklahoma Champions for Early Opportunities.

Compositions to be performed by OKC Philharmonic

Young Chickasaw artists featured at Creativity Forum

Joseph Cruise Berry

Amanda Shackleford

Katie Barrick

Talented Chickasaw students will be showcased in the opening ceremonies of "State of Creativity Forum" at 8:30 a.m., November 13 at the Cox Convention Center in Oklahoma City.

During the opening event, compositions by Chickasaw Summer Arts Academy students Joseph Cruise Berry, Amanda Shackleford and Katie Barrick will be performed live by members of the Oklahoma City Philharmonic Orchestra.

Featured works are "Fantasia" by Joseph Cruise Berry; "Yeah...I Hit Like a Girl" by Amanda Shackleford; and "The Devil's Advocate" by Katie Barrick.

The music will be accompanied by video of 2D art created by Arts Academy students.

"We are extremely pleased to be part of this innovative event and are proud all of our talented Chickasaw youth," Gov. Bill Anoatubby said. "These students are remarkable and they should be very proud of what they have accomplished."

A Celtic-inspired piece, "The Devil's Advocate," was composed at Chickasaw Summer Arts Academy in 2009 by Miss Barrick.

A violinist for most of her life, the 18-year-old Miss Barrick said the Arts Academy enhanced and awakened her love for music.

"It definitely broadened my knowledge," she said. "I learned more in those two weeks than I had in the last three or four years."

Miss Barrick is the daughter of Roland and Melissa Barrick, of Wynnewood, Okla.

Amanda Shackleford's composition, "Yeah...I Hit Like a Girl" was inspired by her experience in martial arts.

A clarinetist, Miss Shackleford, 22, faced some challenges while creating music for a string quartet.

"It's sometimes hard to find inspiration," she said of the composition process. "But when you do, it just clicks and flows. That's what I love about it."

Miss Shackleford is the daughter of Keith and Mary Shackleford, of Lexington, Okla.

She is a student at East Central University, Ada, studying early childhood education.

Joseph Cruise Berry's piece "Fantasia" is a personal musical exercise in both rhythms and time signatures.

He began playing piano in eighth grade, including pieces by Bach, Beethoven and other classical composers. He attended the Chickasaw Summer Arts Academy in 2007. He said the Arts Academy experience was what piqued his interest in music composition.

Up to that point, he was not considering pursuing a music career beyond high school.

In December 2008 Mr. Berry accepted a scholarship to study music composition at Oklahoma City University.

He is the son of Joe and Candace Berry, of Lone Grove, Okla.

Miss Barrick, Miss Shackleford and Mr. Berry are three of 11 student-composers who co-produced the recording of their compositions by string quartet ETHEL in 2010.

The students are led by the Chickasaw Nation's Composer in Residence Jerod Impichchaachaaha' Tate.

Mr. Tate has received numerous commissions and his works have been performed by the National Symphony Orchestra, Detroit Symphony Orchestra, Philadelphia Classical Symphony, Minnesota Orchestra, Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra and Colorado Ballet.

East Central University hosts 'Chickasaw Appreciation Day'

In honor of ECU Chickasaw Appreciation Day, Gov. Bill Anoatubby tossed the ceremonial coin before kick-off at the September 22 matchup between East Central University and Great American Conference rival the University of Arkansas-Monticello.

ADA, Okla. - In celebration of East Central University Chickasaw Appreciation Day, Governor Bill Anoatubby tossed the ceremonial coin before the East Central University Tigers faced conference rival University of Arkansas-Monticello on Sept. 22.

Pregame ceremonies included presentations by the Chickasaw Princesses, Chickasaw Honor Guard and the ECU marching band.

Leading up to the game, more than 40 Chickasaw junior high and high school students registered and attended afternoon activities on the East Central campus.

Students toured the college and learned about East Central's programs and facilities.

"There are a lot of facilities and programs out there for ECU students, and it's not too far from home," said Stratford (OK) High School senior Shaina Teel.

Throughout the day, Shaina and other young Chickasaws learned and performed a choreographed dance number and explored the state-of-the-art Hinoshí Himittá ("New Path") students were among the young Chickasaws in attendance at East Central University's Chickasaw Appreciation Day. From left are Shaina Teel, Melissa McBride, Thunder Hicks, Patrick Cornelison, Randy Brown, Tristen Wood, Lindi Robinson and Autumn Underwood. Students learned about college credit hours, course levels and more, mock enrollment and got a behind-the-scenes tour of the Hallie Brown Ford Fine Arts Center.

William C. Thrash television studio in ECU's Hallie Brown Ford Fine Arts Center.

Representatives from the Chickasaw Nation were on hand to provide information about programs and services available to students considering post-secondary education.

The Metal Mayhem robotics team from the Chickasaw Nation Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics Academy showcased several robots in a demonstration just outside the University Center.

In the Estep Center, East Central Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs Dr. Duane C. Anderson welcomed everyone to campus, and emphasized the value of a college education.

"Wherever you go, wherever you stop, always remember, the key to a better life, the key to improving our state and the key to improving our nation, is education," said Dr. Anderson.

East Central alumnus and Division of Youth and Family Administrator Jay Keel congratulated those in attendance for taking the initiative, and choosing to spend a Saturday learning about higher education.

"You have displayed leadership today by coming to this event," he said.

Before a special tailgate party, Gov. Anoatubby commented on the special relationship between the Chickasaw Nation and East Central University - a relationship that began in 1909 when Chickasaw citizen Dan Hays donated 16 acres to the fledgling college.

The Governor shared his own experiences as an East Central student and credited the school for preparing him for his professional journey.

"I was prepared on the day I started my first job," he said.

Gov. Anoatubby expressed the importance of individual responsibility and taking the first step toward a post-secondary education.

"Today in the Chickasaw Nation, there is no reason someone should not, or could not, pursue a higher education," he said. "The Chickasaw Nation can provide the opportunity, but it is up to you to take that first step and enroll in college."

At halftime, Gov. Anoatubby was presented a plaque in recognition of the tribe's continued support of ECU.

The day was topped off by a 31-17 victory by the Tigers!

Summers named head of Chickasaw Nation Medical Center clinical services

Heather Summers

ADA, Okla. – Heather Summers was recently appointed by Gov. Bill Anoatubby as Chickasaw Nation Medical Center administrative officer of clinical services.

“Mrs. Summers is a highly-qualified individual who consistently demonstrates an unwavering commitment of providing the highest quality of care to Chickasaw citizens, patients and the community,” Gov. Anoatubby said. “She brings a wealth of experience, dedication, compassion and initiative to her new position.”

Appointed to the position in August, Mrs. Summers, a Chickasaw citizen, works with Division of Health administrator Dr. Judy Goforth Parker and staff to ensure the daily operations, programs, services, policies, procedures and other aspects of the medical center are at optimum levels.

Over the past 13 years, Mrs. Summers has worked in various roles in the Chickasaw Nation Division of Health, including outpatient nursing manager, deputy director of outpatient services and the director of nursing.

She began her career with the Chickasaw Nation in 1993 as a medical, surgical and obstetrics nurse at Carl Albert Indian Health Facility.

Mrs. Summers worked in a home health care agency in the mid-90s before “coming back home” to the Chickasaw Nation to work as an outpatient nurse.

Finding new ways to improve the quality of service to Chickasaw citizens and patients motivates her in her work.

“The Chickasaw Nation always put citizens and patients first and that’s what drives me to be better at what I do,” Mrs. Summers said. “I feel very proud and blessed that I get to work for an organization that puts the focus on the people we serve and how we can better provide the services and meet their needs. I am very proud to be a citizen of the Chickasaw Nation.”

A Sulphur, Okla., native, Mrs. Summers earned a bachelor’s degree in nursing from East Central University in 1994 and received a master’s degree in nursing administration in 2012 from the University of Oklahoma.

She lives in Sulphur with her husband Charlie.

The couple has two sons, Payte and Seth, who also work for the Chickasaw Nation.

Connections

Connections is a weekly radio program on the Chickasaw Nation’s KCNP Radio that covers a variety of topics and issues.

Each week, special guests are invited to discuss their areas of experience and expertise with host Brian Brashier.

Connections airs live on KCNP at 11 a.m. each Wednesday on 89.5 FM or streaming online at www.kcnpradio.org.

This month on Connections:

Connections will feature area nonprofits that are making a difference in the community.

“National Diabetes Awareness Month”– November 7

November is American Diabetes Month. Diabetes is a serious epidemic facing not only our nation but the world. A health professional will be in the studio to talk about this disease.

“Holiday Shopping”– November 14

The holidays are the busiest time of year for retailers. A faculty member from a local university’s consumer science department will teach us a little more about shopping – everything from Black Friday to holiday returns.

“It’s Turkey Time (Part 2)”– November 21

Last year, we learned how to properly prepare a Thanksgiving bird for the big feast. This year we’ll discover sides, desserts and what to do with all the leftovers!

“Holiday Time in the Chickasaw Nation”– November 28

The holiday season is just around the corner. We’ll find out what there is to see and do in the Chickasaw Nation during this special time of year.

Businesses have record year; health, ed spending tops $46m

FINANCIAL REPORT

The tribal government caption includes the tribe’s general fund and the tribe’s BIA trust funds. The Chickasaw Businesses include all of the businesses and operations of the Chickasaw Enterprises. Not included in the financial statements are federally or state funded programs and/or grants and the financial statements of Bank 2 and Chickasaw Industries, Inc.

The growing needs of the businesses are taken into account when determining the transfers from the businesses to the general fund. It is vital to the long range mission of the Chickasaw Nation that the businesses continue to grow and diversify.

Revenues of the tribal operation, other than the transfer from businesses, include motor fuel settlement funds and investment income. Chickasaw Businesses revenues include gaming revenues net of prizes, sales revenue at convenience, travel plazas and tobacco stores, rent and investment income.

Tribal expenditures are classified by function. General government includes the maintenance and operations of tribal property, Chickasaw Times and Governor’s and Lt. Governor’s offices. Expenditure for education includes education scholarship as well as the tribe’s division of education. Health expenditures include senior citizens sites, eye glasses, hearing aids, prescription drugs, wellness center, community health clinics, catastrophic medical assistance and other similar programs not covered by federal programs or grants.

The businesses’ expenditures are classified as to expenses associated with gaming operation of the tribe and the other businesses of the tribe.

Executive Summary of the Financial Statements of the period ending September 30, 2012

Tribal Government

Revenues and transfers from the businesses for operations and fixed assets totaled $21.6 million for the month and $176.4 million year-to-date. Expenditures were $12.80 million for the month and $111.6 million year-to-date.

Chickasaw Businesses

Revenue net of gaming prizes through September totaled $1.126 billion. Net income before the transfers to the Tribal Government was $291.6 million year-to-date. After transfers to the Tribal Government for capital projects and tribal program operations the net income was $132.8 million year-to-date. The net income includes all revenue, including amounts reserved for business growth and expansion.

Statement of Net Assets

At September 30, 2012, the tribal government funds had $189.6 million in cash and investments. Of this amount, $20.1 million is in the BIA

Trust funds. This total does not include any federal program funds.

The businesses had $169.8 million in cash and investments which is reserved for accounts payable and business operations.

As of September 30, 2012, tribal operations, excluding federal program funding, had net assets of $1.473 billion compared to $1.427 billion at June 30, 2012 or an increase of $46 million.

Scott, Herrington leading adventurers; youth exploring future

Chickasaw Nation has deep ties to aerospace achievements

Cmdr. John Herrington (USN), a native Oklahoman and Chickasaw citizen, in his official NASA portrait.

The late Pearl Carter Scott with the plaque she received following her induction into the Chickasaw Hall of Fame.

This year marks a milestone in space exploration – the 10th anniversary of the first enrolled Native American citizen in space. Commander John B. Herrington (USN) is one of the Oklahoma heroes who helped to catapult Oklahoma into the space age.

Cmdr. Herrington, a Chickasaw, became the first Native American in space in November 2002 during his mission aboard the Space Shuttle Endeavor.

He served as flight engineer during the mission to the International Space Station, where he logged more than 330 hours in space. About 20 hours were spent performing spacewalks.

He is one of many Oklahoma sons and daughters selected for the United States space program. Born in Wetumka, Okla., Cmdr. Herrington honored his heritage by carrying the Chickasaw Nation flag on his historic trip to the stars.

Today, he continues to be an inspiration to youth of all walks of life. As a motivational speaker to young people, he encourages pursuit of education.

“What I want to promote to kids is that if there is something that you like to do, what is natural and fun, the studying is secondary,” Cmdr. Herrington said. “It happens - it makes it that much easier to study.”

Cmdr. Herrington often credits his success in flight to another Chickasaw who broke a different kind of flight record.

The late Chickasaw aviatrix Pearl Carter Scott grew up in Marlow, Okla. She was among the first women pilots and the was the youngest pilot in the United States with her first flight in 1929, under the tutelage of legendary aviator Wiley Post. She later worked as a stunt pilot and barnstormer until ending her career to focus on her children and family.

Mrs. Scott has been inducted into the Oklahoma Aviation and Space Hall of Fame, The International Woman's Air and Space Museum Hall of Fame and is a charter member of the National Museum of American Indian at the Smithsonian.

For the Chickasaw Nation, these two dynamic Oklahoman personalities blazed trails that many have followed, and they continue to influence the tribe. The Chickasaw Nation has many educational programs that encourage today's youth in the aerospace industry.

The Chickasaw Nation Aviation and Space Academy was established in 2003. Using hands-on flying simulators, building rockets and a mentor-based curriculum that culminates in flying a plane, CNASA motivates students to pursue careers in science and technology.

An innovative building designed to inspire and nurture future scientists and engineers was officially opened in 2011. The 7,000 square-foot building houses the tribal robotics program and CNASA.

“The Science-Technology-Math Academy is an integral part of our effort to provide the tools and instruction which will inspire our young people to make that important connection between education and a meaningful career,” Gov. Bill Anoatubby said.

The CNASA building also provides the robotics teams and other science student programs a place to conduct meetings, research information for projects, build robots, simulate tournament play, and utilize the flight simulator.

To further inspire students and to include Chickasaws from outside the state, Chickasaw youths from around the nation annually travel to Huntsville, Ala. for Space Camp. Founded in 1982, Space Camp is one of the premier educational programs in the world and is located at the U.S. space and Rocket Center and the visitor center for NASA's Marshall Flight Center.

“Some of our former robotics and CNASA students are now pursuing higher education and careers in the science and aerospace fields,” said Gov. Anoatubby. “Our hope is this facility will provide another tool which will help motivate more students to set lofty goals and do what it takes to reach those goals.”

Oklahoma has a long history in the space and aeronautics industries. According to state representatives, aerospace industries are responsible for 144,000 direct or indirect jobs in the state, or about one out of 11 Oklahomans.

The aerospace industry produces 10 percent of Oklahoma's total economic output, an estimated $12.5 billion, and accounts for a $5 billion annual payroll. It is among the top four industries of state.

Oklahomans who work in the aerospace industry enjoy an average salary of $55,000 per year, compared to $30,000 for the average Oklahoma worker.

'Legacies' honors cultures at Chickasaw Heritage Park

Detail from "Legacies," the sculpture recently unveiled at Chickasaw Heritage Park in Memphis, Tenn.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. – A unique sculpture reflecting the multi-cultural history of the Memphis area has recently been unveiled along the Chickasaw Bluffs area.

The sculpture by New York artist Vinnie Bagwell, "Legacies," is designed to reflect the unique and complex past of what is now known as Chickasaw Heritage Park. "Legacies" was unveiled during ceremonies October 25 at the park.

"(The work) bequeaths future generations with a glimpse of some of the rich history that revolves around the Chickasaw Native Americans, African Americans and Hispanic Americans in Memphis," Ms. Bagwell said. "I have been inspired to weave some of these memories into my concept."

"The Urban Arts Council of Memphis is doing a good job making people aware of Chickasaw history, and other groups' history in the Memphis area," Gov. Bill Anoatubby said. "By improving the park area and installing this work of art, visitors will be able to reflect on the Chickasaw people, and the other people, who have occupied these bluffs."

Chickasaw Nation Division of Policies and Standards and Department of Homeland Affairs administrator Kirk Perry attended the event and gave a address regarding the Chickasaws' history in the homelands.

Chickasaw Heritage Park overlooks the Mississippi River. Known as Chickasaw Bluffs, the Chickasaw people inhabited the rise both before and after contact. A Chickasaw earth mound, Mr. Perry said, still exists on the location.

The 17-acre Chickasaw Heritage Park has historic markers, walking paths and a scenic view of the Mississippi River. The Urban Arts Council has been working to improve the outdoor spaces of Memphis, and new sidewalks have recently been installed in several areas.

SOUTHAVEN, Miss. - During the time of the "Legacies" dedication, more Chickasaw activity were taking place just to the south, in DeSoto County, Mississippi.

The Chickasaw Dance Troupe visited Sacred Heart School on Tchulahoma Road in Southaven on Oct. 26 and provided a demonstration for the students. The Dance Troupe's appearance was just one of the many Chickasaw-related activities the last week of October.

Sacred Heart students have spent the week learning about the Chickasaws who called DeSoto County home for countless generations.

The park area, Mr. Perry said, had been used as an artillery installation during the War Between the States and, as a consequence, amateur digging had occurred.

The Urban Arts Council initiative should curb the digging and encourage new visitors.

DeSoto County Museum director Brian Hicks gave presentations to the students that included ancient pottery, arrowheads, spearheads and animal bone shards as a way to help students understand how the Chickasaw people lived.

Mr. Hicks also told the students how the federal government drove the native Chickasaws out of their homelands during the Removal period.

In 2011, Hernando, Miss., mayor Chip Johnson presented a key to the city to the Chickasaw Nation. The meeting helped lead to the founding of the Chickasaw Trails Association, an educational effort in local schools and a preservation effort of natural and historic Chickasaw areas.

Through a partnership with the Chucalissa Museum in Memphis, many indigenous items were returned to the DeSoto County Museum. Local people have planted scores of Chickasaw plum trees across the county to honor the Chickasaw people.

On October 27 in Hernando, the Chickasaw Trials Association hosted its second annual "Red Pride Bike Ride," a 36-mile ride across the hills, valleys and ridges of western DeSoto County. This is the Association's major fundraiser for the year.

The Chickasaw Dance Troupe was on hand to demonstrate. The Troupe danced at 11 a.m. at the Hernando Farmers Market on the DeSoto Courthouse lawn.

Jack and Matthew Atteberry resting and having refreshments after a busy day of volunteer work at a local mission.

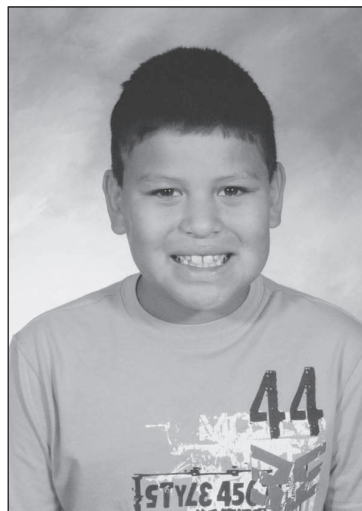

Summer is over and school is in! Matthew, 14, and Jack Atteberry, 10, sons of Bob and Dana Atteberry, of Kingwood, Texas, contributed some of their summer vacation to work in a local mission.

They helped unload donations, carried them into the building and did some sorting of items. They washed the shopping carts and swept the floors.

They learned about giving instead of always getting. Jack helped distribute fans to the elderly. Matthew helped unload the truck of canned food.

Together, the boys gave 15 hours volunteering at the Mission.

Letter to the Editor Thanks for home repairs grant

Dear Editor:

My grandmother, Pearl Compton Rose, and great-grandmother were original enrollees and I am proud to be of an American Indian Heritage.

I want to thank the Tribe for having a grant available for repairs on my home. It was a much needed source of money as the floor in my bathroom was shaky when walking on from water damage as was a few boards in my living room damaged.

From the bottom of my heart, I say thank you for the much needed help as I am on disability and could not have had the repairs done.

I am grateful for the financial and ask God to continue to bless the Chickasaw Nation.

Gratefully yours,
Phyllis Hart

Chickasaw scholar to present on new media

Chickasaw scholar Dr. Traci Morris, of Phoenix, Ariz., will present "Indian Country: Crossing the Digital and Media Divide" 6:30 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 8 at East Central University's Estep Multimedia Center.

Dr. Morris, who has a doctorate in American Indian Studies, is an expert in new media and telecommunications issues in Indian Country.

She is currently serving a two-year appointment to the Federal Communications Commission Consumer Affairs Commission, representing tribal interests.

Her professional work encompasses all areas of Native American art and media, from the auditory to the visual to the digital realm.

Dr. Morris has taught college courses, authored books and articles, presented numerous professional papers, worked with Native media makers, artists and galleries, written a college-accredited curriculum in Native American new media, and has advocated for digital inclusion at the Federal Communications Commission and on Capitol Hill.

Dr. Morris was a panelist for the 2009 Dynamic Women of the Chickasaw Nation Forum.

The event is presented by the Chickasaw Nation Division of Arts and Humanities and East Central University's Chickasaw Clemente Humanities Class.

A reception will immediately follow the program.

For more information, contact Laura Clark, Chickasaw Nation humanities and literary arts manager at (580) 272-5520 or email laura.clark@chickasaw.net.

Chickasaw Cultural Center sets holiday events

SULPHUR, Okla. - From honoring our veterans to celebrating holiday traditions, several exciting events are planned this fall at the Chickasaw Cultural Center.

Multi-Tribal Day November 3

Native American tribes from across Oklahoma will gather at the Cultural Center from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 3 to celebrate Multi-Tribal Day.

Demonstrators from several tribes will be at the Traditional Village, which features replicas of Chickasaw homes from Southeastern homelands. An archery contest, stomp dance, a stickball game and storytelling will be conducted throughout the day in the Traditional Village.

Native Americans will receive free admission to the Chikasha Poya Exhibit Center.

Veterans Day Celebration November 10-11

A Veterans Day Celebration, a day to honor all men and women of the armed forces, will be Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 10-11. A special stomp dance and a special salute to honor all veterans will be conducted Saturday.

Veterans will also receive free admission to the Chikasha Poya Exhibit Center and a discount in the Aaimpa Café and gift shops.

Thanksgiving Celebration November 23-25

A three-day Thanksgiving Celebration is planned for Friday, Nov. 23 - Sunday, Nov. 25.

Guided tours of the Traditional Village, complete with hot chocolate, will be conducted throughout the day.

A miniature holiday ornament class and a children's Christmas tree workshop are planned. A Stomp Dance demonstration will be conducted at 11 a.m. in the Traditional Village Friday and Saturday.

Holiday sales will be offered in Cultural Center retail shops.

Christmas Celebration December 8

The third-annual Christmas Celebration, Saturday, Dec. 8 will include celebrations of several significant holiday traditions.

Traditional Village tours, complete with hot chocolate, will be offered from 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. Pictures with Santa will be available in the Anoli Theater lobby.

A Native American miniature ornament class is planned, as well as a children's ornament workshop.

Holiday sales will be offered all day at Cultural Center retail shops.

For more information about upcoming events, contact the Chickasaw Cultural Center at (580) 622-7130, or online at www.chickasawculturalcenter.com.

Chickasaw Royalty Crowned

Autumn Underwood, Chelsea Wedlow, Payton Robertson to represent tribe for 2012-13

ADA, Okla. – Three young Chickasaw ladies were chosen to serve as Chickasaw Nation ambassadors during the 2012-2013 Chickasaw Princess Pageant.

Autumn Michelle Underwood, Chelsea Wedlow and Payton Robertson were crowned Chickasaw Princess, Chickasaw Junior Princess and Little Miss Chickasaw, respectively Oct. 1 at the Ada High School Cougar Activity Center.

"These extraordinary young ladies will serve as excellent ambassadors and culture bearers for the Chickasaw Nation during the upcoming year," said Gov. Bill Anoatubby. "We and hope the experience will enhance their lives and enable them to become positive role models to young Chickasaws and other Native American youth. We are proud of these three young ladies and all of our Chickasaw Princess Pageant participants."

The winners received crowns, traditional dresses, shawls, sashes, trophies, gifts and cash prizes.

The new royalty will have the honor and privilege of representing the Chickasaw Nation at various events nationwide during their one-year reigns.

Contestants were judged on traditional dress, poise and random questions.

There was also a talent portion of the competition. Singing, instrumental performances, storytelling and dance were a few of the talents displayed.

Chickasaw Princess Autumn Underwood, 18, is the daughter of Michael Underwood and Lorraine Weems. She is a senior at Latta High School, Ada.

"Becoming Chickasaw Princess will provide me with new learning experiences in which I can gain knowledge about my heritage and traditions," Miss Underwood said. "I want to make a difference in the world by becoming a positive and strong role model. Younger generations need to see that anything is possible through hard work, dedication, determination, family support and self-confidence."

Chelsea Wedlow, 13, was selected as Chickasaw Junior Princess. Miss Wedlow is the daughter of Maceo Wedlow and Rachel (Stick) Wedlow. She attends the eighth grade at Allen (OK) Public Schools.

"Being a Chickasaw Nation Princess is more to me than just a crown and sash - it's a job!" Miss Wedlow said. "I understand it's my responsibility to teach others about my culture, language and to be a role model for young people."

Miss Wedlow previously served as Little Miss Chickasaw.

Payton Robertson is the eight-year-old daughter of Steven and Destiny Robertson. She attends third grade at Washington Elementary School, Ada.

"I want to be Little Miss Chickasaw because I would like to get involved in my culture," Miss Robertson said. "I want to explore the world while I am representing the Chickasaw Nation."

Fichik Hita (Dancing Star)

Frazier, Ada, was named the first runner-up 2012-2013 Chickasaw Princess and Hagen LeFors, Ada, was second runner-up in the Chickasaw Princess Pageant.

Other winners in the Chickasaw Junior Princess category were: first runner-up Kacie Seeley, Ada; second runner-up Taylor Nicole Robertson, Ada; third runner-up Caitlynn Sparlin, Tishomingo; and fourth runner-up Krysten Wallace, Ada.

Lauren Key, Francis, Okla., and Cydnee Miller, Ada, were named first and second runners-up, respectively in the Little Miss Chickasaw category.

During the pageant ceremony, special recognition and tribute were paid to the outgoing royalty.

The 2011-2012 Chickasaw royalty are Chickasaw Princess Nacobi Walker; Chickasaw Jr. Princess Raechell Meely; and Little Miss Chickasaw Keilyn Factor.

Royalty from other tribes were also special guests at the pageant.

The Chickasaw princesses have been making appearances for many years. The heritage of the princesses goes back to 1963 when Ranell (James) Harry was appointed the first princess.

All royalty participants are required to be residents of the Chickasaw Nation and have a minimum one-quarter Chickasaw blood quantum and meet other requirements. For more information about the Chickasaw Princess Program, please visit www.chickasaw.net or call (580) 272-5508.

Hat pin for Chickasaw Veterans

In honor of Veterans Day, the Chickasaw Nation would like to send our Chickasaw veterans a Chickasaw Nation hat pin as a small token of appreciation for your service in the U.S. military.

The pin has been created to replicate the Chickasaw Nation Morale Patch that is distributed to Chickasaw servicemen and women on active duty. It can be displayed proudly as a symbol of your loyalty and dedication to the protection of this country and the Chickasaw people.

Veterans, please call (580) 310-6451 or email ChickasawVeterans@chickasaw.net to request your pin today!

Pride in Homeownership 2012 Yard Contest winners

The Chickasaw Nation Division of Housing and Tribal Development sponsors the Pride in Homeownership Yard Contest each Spring. This contest runs from May through August and is open to current participants of the Homeownership/Mutual Help housing program. Two winners are selected each month from Pontotoc District, Pickens District and Panola/Tishomingo District for the Legislator Award of a free month's rent. These six winners then advance to compete for the Lt. Governor's Award of a $50 Wal-mart gift card. Each Lt. Governor's Award winner (four in all) is then eligible for the Governor's Award of a $250 Wal-mart gift card. This selection is made around October. You may submit your yard by completing an entry-form or by phone at (580) 421-8800. A Housing Representative will be sent to photograph your yard.

Chickasaw Foundation Call for Artists

The Chickasaw Foundation is a 501 (c) 3 nonprofit organization. The foundation is currently accepting donations of Native American artwork for its art auction during the Friends of the Foundation reception on November 16. This reception is hosted annually to recognize donors and volunteers.

Your tax-deductible donation will benefit the foundation and its scholarship program. In 2007 the foundation established the Chickasaw Foundation Fine Arts Scholarship for any college student with a CDIB majoring in fine arts (arts, music, dramatics and dance). This one-time award is a competitive scholarship offered annually. If you are interested in making a donation, please contact the Chickasaw Foundation at (580) 421-9030.

The mission of the Chickasaw Foundation is to promote the general welfare and culture of the Chickasaw people by supporting educational, health, historical and community activities and programs.

Friends of the Foundation annual reception set for Nov. 16 at Chickasaw Community Center

August 2012 Outstanding Achievement Award recipients

Tanner Hawkins

Tanner, son of Rod and Stephanie Hawkins, of Howe, Texas, is an August 2012 recipient of the Chickasaw Honor Club Outstanding Achievement in Journalism.

Tanner Hawkins

Tanner is a junior at Howe High School and was nominated by English teacher Caroline Hughes.

"Tanner is an extraordinary student," said Hughes. "He has high-level critical thinking skills coupled with a unique world view. As a writer, Tanner improved tremendously over the course of the last year. He worked diligently and began to soar."

Tanner is very involved with his school and youth group at church. He is a member of the student council and on the basketball team and cross country team. Last year Tanner placed first in the state University Interscholastic League competition for feature writing.

"I plan on pursuing a degree in journalism and am considering a minor in media or communications," said Tanner.

Zakery Parkey

Zakery, son of William and Stephany Parkey, of Bloomington, Ind., is an August 2012 recipient of the Chickasaw Honor Club Outstanding Leadership.

Zakery Parkey

Zakery is a senior at Bloomington High School South and was nominated by the Instructor of Health Careers Barbara Hawkins.

"Zakery is a kind, considerate young man," said Hawkins. "He has a strong sense of values and is willing to share this with others. Zakery is happy to serve in leadership roles and jumps in to help whenever a volunteer is needed."

Zakery enjoys horseback riding, basketball and is very involved with his church. He just completed an internship in the medical/surgical unit of Indiana University Health Bloomington Hospital and also in the Monroe Primary Carer Medical Office.

"I plan to attend the local junior college for my basics and continue on to become a nurse anesthetist," said Zakery. "I also plan to be a Pentecostal preacher."

Zarisa Parkey

Zarisa, daughter of William and Stephany Parkey, of Bloomington, Ind., is an August 2012 recipient of the Chickasaw Honor Club Outstanding Academic Achievement.

Zarisa Parkey

Zarisa is a junior at Bloomington High School South and was nominated biology teacher Amanda Figolah.

"Zarisa had many positive character traits and unique skills that set her apart from her peers," said Figolah. "She is a strong student with intrinsic motivation to truly understand class content. Zarisa has great potential in life as she is wise beyond her years, enjoys all that life has to offer and strives to do her very best in all she pursues."

Zarisa enjoys volleyball, swimming, reading, and helping at youth camps. She is part of the ski club, Spanish club and a member of the honor society.

"I plan to attend college and become a dental hygienist," said Zarisa.

Enrollment for the 2012-2013 Chickasaw Honor Club is now open. Second through twelfth grade Chickasaw students in excellent academic standing—maintaining a 3.0 to 4.0 GPA—or those with perfect attendance, are eligible to apply. Applications are available online at <https://services.chickasaw.net>. For more information, please contact the Chickasaw Honor Club at (580) 421-7711.

September 2012 Outstanding Achievement Award recipients

Kelli Byars

Kelli, daughter of Emiel and Mary Byars, of Ada, Okla., is a September 2012 recipient of the Chickasaw Honor Club Outstanding Academic Achievement.

Kelli Byars

Kelli is a junior at Ada High School and was nominated by Director of Indian Education Jinger McClure.

"Kelli is a very deserving student," said McClure. "She has been involved in the challenge bowl team and is an excellent student. Kelli's teachers are always telling me how well she is doing in their classes."

Kelli enjoys reading, writing short stories and doing puzzles such as Sudoku or KenKen. She also likes learning about other cultures and foreign languages.

"I want to be a forensic scientist in the future," said Kelli. "I would like to work with the Federal Bureau of Investigation if possible. I am also considering majoring in children's psychology."

Alexandra Davis

Alexandra, daughter of Doug and Laura Davis, of Ardmore, Okla., is a September 2012 recipient of the Chickasaw Honor Club Outstanding Achievement in Athletics.

Alexandra is a senior at Plainview High School South and was nominated by Indian education coordinator Kerry Tully.

Alexandra Davis

"Alexandra is a young woman of exceptional talent and character," said Tully. "Her involvement in school, community and church activities shows her ability to lead by example. Alexandra pushes for excellence in all her activities and inspires those around her to achieve their best."

Alexandra is an active member in her church and of her school's student council, Beta Club and choir. She is a leader on the varsity cross country and track team. She enjoys cooking, math, science and traveling with her family.

"I plan to run track and cross country at the university level," said Alexandra. "I am undecided on a major."

Reece Jordan

Reece, son of Michael and Alyson Jordan, of Ada, Okla., is a September 2012 recipient of the Chickasaw Honor

Reece Jordan

Club Outstanding Academic Achievement.

Reece is in the third grade at Latta School and was nominated by third grade teacher Lisa Morrison.

"Reece is an excellent student," said Morrison. "He follows instructions and listens attentively in class. He uses his time wisely and turns in assignments when they are due."

Reece loves spending time with his family. He likes playing games such as kickball and other sports. He also enjoys swimming and reading.

"I plan on continuing to work hard and achieve good grades," said Reece.

Paige Young

Paige, daughter of Todd Young and Kellie Mullins, of Ada, Okla., is a September 2012 recipient of the Chickasaw Honor Club Outstanding Citizenship.

Paige Young

Paige is in the eighth grade at Latta Middle School and was nominated by English teacher Roy Deering.

"Paige is a great young lady, a wonderful student and a fine example for others in her classes and at school," said Deering. "She is a model student in many ways, and I am so happy to have her in class for the second year in a row."

Paige enjoys listening to music and drawing. She also plays softball during the summer and likes to read.

"My future plans are to get good grades in school so I can get a scholarship," said Paige. "I want to go to a college in England and study astronomy or literature."

Enrollment for the 2012-2013 Chickasaw Honor Club is now open. Second through twelfth grade Chickasaw students in excellent academic standing—maintaining a 3.0 to 4.0 GPA—or those with perfect attendance, are eligible to apply. Gov. Anoatubby pointed to the success of tribal businesses as one key to the growing strength of the Chickasaw Nation.

"Tribal businesses enable us to meet our mission by providing employment opportunities and funding for our many programs and services," Gov. Anoatubby said. "Thanks to sound fiscal management, creative thinking, diversification efforts and a strong team of employees, we have seen tremendous economic growth."

Business Diversification

The Chickasaw Nation has more than 50 businesses in a variety of fields, including tourism, entertainment, manufacturing, medical technology, medical services, government contracting, banking and communication, among others.

A recent study by Oklahoma City University reported the Chickasaw Nation achieved an annual economic impact of more than $2.4 billion in Oklahoma.

"Business diversification is a vital component of our long-term economic development strategy," Gov. Anoatubby said. "While it is important to reinvest in our established businesses to maximize their growth potential, it is also essential to carefully build a diverse business portfolio."

"Employment opportunities continue to grow. But most importantly, this prosperity has directly contributed to our ability to create and enhance nearly 200 programs and services that directly benefit Chickasaws."

Tourism

Tourism is a major focus of the tribe's business diversification and economic development efforts. The Chickasaw Cultural Center, which has attracted more than 130,000 visitors since opening in July 2010, offers an anchor for additional tourism attractions being developed by the Chickasaw Nation.

Construction is currently under way on the Artesian Hotel in Sulphur, Okla. The hotel is scheduled to open in early 2013. A visitor center under construction between the Artesian Hotel and the Chickasaw National Recreation Area is scheduled to open in summer of 2013.

The visitor center will feature an art gallery, gift shop, video room and bike sharing system.

"The addition of these facilities will help develop a tourism corridor from Interstate 35 along Highway 7 from Davis into Sulphur and to the Ada and Tishomingo areas as well," Gov. Anoatubby said.

Other construction projects focused on enhancing tourism in the area include a welcome center and new Bedré Fine Chocolates factory at the Davis exit on Interstate 35. The welcome center will feature information about tourist attractions in the Chickasaw Nation. The new Bedré factory will include an area where visitors can view the manufacturing process and experience chocolate making firsthand.

"The welcome center will serve as a gateway to Chickasaw Country," Gov. Anoatubby said. "These new features will enable us to attract more visitors and create a destination for tourists traveling on I-35."

Health Care Business

While the tribe has delivered health care services to Chickasaws and other Indian people through its Division of Health for decades, it has recently opened its first health care business catering to the general public.

Sovereign Medical Solutions recently opened a family practice clinic and pharmacy in Ada. Plans are under way to expand services into the Norman area and broaden the scope of health-related business services.

Health Care

The growth of tribal businesses has also enabled the tribe to enhance health care services. The Chickasaw Nation utilized tribal funds to construct its new medical center in Ada. Since that facility opened in August, 2010, the Chickasaw Nation Division of Health has experienced a steady increase in the number of patients served.

This year alone, the health system will accommodate more than 500,000 patient visits and fill more than 1.1 million prescriptions. Chickasaw Nation wellness centers will have more than 140,000 participant visits.

More than 250 additional jobs were created by construction of the Chickasaw Nation Medical Center in Ada. Expansion of health clinics in Ardmore and Tishomingo will create more than 150 new jobs in the region.

In July, the Chickasaw Nation broke ground on Chickasha House on the campus of the medical center in Ada. Chickasha House will offer a place for families to stay while loved ones are in the hospital for extended periods. The 2,300 square-foot facility will include two units with four bedrooms, private bathrooms, a shared kitchen, dining room, living room and laundry room.

"Chickasha House is one way we can relieve a small part of the stress and concern that comes when a family member is receiving care," Gov. Anoatubby said. "We believe this will be a great addition to the medical center campus."

Education

Education has long been a high priority for the Chickasaw Nation.

"We work hard to ensure that Chickasaws have every opportunity to obtain a quality education," Gov. Anoatubby said. "Whether you are eight or 80, if you want to learn, we can help you find a way."

Chickasaw students pursuing higher education were awarded more than 21,000 scholarships and other incentives totaling almost $16 million during the fiscal year concluded September 30.

Almost 700 junior high and high school students gained on-the-job training through the summer youth employment program.

"This program allows students to function in a real workplace where they can learn the skills and attitudes needed to succeed," Gov. Anoatubby said.

More than 10,000 books were distributed to children ages five and under through the Chickasaw reading program. More than 7,500 awards were distributed through the Chickasaw Honor Club to encourage perfect attendance and good grades among elementary, junior high and high school students.

Housing

Gov. Anoatubby said home ownership opportunities continued to be a high priority because, he said, quality, affordable housing was vital to quality of life. Those programs range from home loan services, to storm shelters and home maintenance.

The Chickasaw Nation has assisted more than 1,000 families obtain home loans totaling more than $105 million since initiating its home loan program. The tribe has also distributed more than $4 million in down payment and closing cost assistance.

Tribal business revenues have enabled the tribe to create programs that assist with storm shelters, home repair and landscaping. More than 2,800 storm shelters, 875 home repair grants and 680 landscaping packages have been distributed through these programs.

Senior Services

Seniors have unique housing needs that are being met by the Chickasaw Nation.

Chickasaw Elder Living Apartments opened this year in Ardmore are within walking distance of the health clinic, senior center, nutrition center and wellness center.

"This was the first project of its kind in the Chickasaw Nation," Gov. Anoatubby said. "This project has exceeded our goals as the families have developed a strong bond as they assist one another with errands, picking up mail, doing yard work and more."

New senior centers have been opened in Ardmore and Connerville this year. Chickasaw Nation senior centers in 12 communities have served almost 150,000 meals, as well as offering health screenings, wellness classes and social activities.

Gov. Anoatubby noted that our elders hold a special place at the Chickasaw Nation.

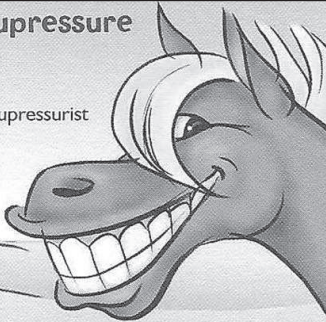

"We raise you up," he said. "We support you as you have supported, encouraged and guided us. Your spirit of determination, creativity and community has helped build the Chickasaw Nation."

Roger Jack Jennings

Roger Jack Jennings, 57, died September 23, 2012 at Sulphur, Okla., following a brief illness. Funeral services were Sept. 27 at the First Baptist Church of Davis (OK) with Pastor Luke Pantor and Mr. Kent Jennings officiating. Interment followed at Green Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Jennings was born December 1, 1954 at Sulphur to Robert and Joyce (Witherington) Jennings.

He married Jeanie Gray August 23, 1974 at Davis.

He was simply a happy-go-lucky type of individual with a "Here I am World" kind of grin.

After graduating from Davis (OK) High School in 1973 he continued his education at the University of Oklahoma, Norman where he majored in criminal justice. During his time in law enforcement he worked with the Norman Police Department, the Oklahoma ABLE Commission and the Chickasaw Nation where he recently retired. Currently he was employed with the Davis Public School System.

Mr. Jennings was an avid fan of the Davis Wolves and the OU Sooners. He loved spending time with his family and friends, especially when it came to vacationing on a beach somewhere or taking a cruise.

He was a member of the First Baptist Church of Davis.

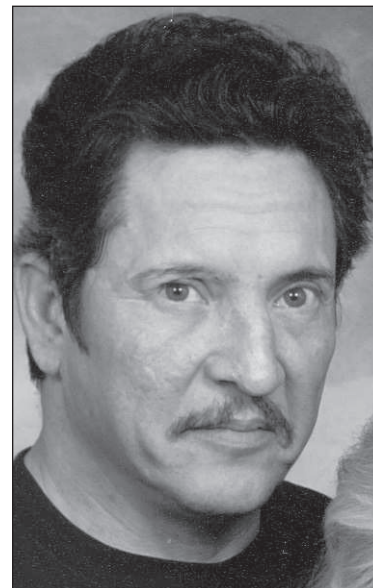

He was preceded in death by his mother, Joyce, in September 2004.

He is survived by his wife, Jeanie; two sons, Jeff Jennings and wife, Jodi, of Davis and Josh Jennings and wife, LaKrista, of Sulphur; his father, Robert Jennings, of Davis; five grandchildren, Jaylee, Jett, Lexi, Madux and Jax; and his father-in-law and mother-in-law, Paul and Pat Gray, of Davis.

Pallbearers were George Tipton, Ted Lawrence, Gary Gage, Joe Cowan, John Smith, Dale Vineyard, Michael Deaton, Craig McClennon and Lonnie Kiener.

Online condolences may be left at halesfuneralhomes.com

Vernon Dale Ward

Vernon Dale Ward died September 1, 2012 at his home in Monroe, Ga.

Mr. Ward was born at Altus, Okla., and lived in Georgia for the last 20 years.

He was a proud member of the Chickasaw Nation and had many Native American family and friends of the Choctaw Nation and the Chickasaw Nation.

Mr. Ward and his wife, Donna Marie Ward, lived in California for several years before locating to Georgia. He was a hard worker and could not stand to sit around. He could always find something to do like putting in complete fencing and cross-fencing on his 10 acre place in Monroe. He did this even though he had a broken neck and a missing disk in his lower back. He was always working to keep the place mowed and looking presentable. He had two bad automobile accidents and suffered many bad injuries. Although he was in a lot of pain and knew that he was becoming paralyzed for the second time in his life due to new problems in his neck, he continued to work and keep himself busy.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Kathryn Stella Johnson and Carl Ruben Ward; a brother Carl Ray Ward, Jr., who died in Vietnam while serving his country; a sister Retha Ward; a brother-in-law, John Aycox; his grandparents Ora Ward and Annie and Clarence Walton; a nephew Kenneth Caldwell; and an uncle, Don Holman.

He is survived by his loving wife of almost 27 years, Donna Marie Ward; a son, Brian Ward, of Atlanta; sisters, Debbie Caldwell, of New Hampshire, Mary Holman, of Byars, Okla., and Linda Coon, of Newalla, Okla.; brothers, Bill Johnson and Johnny Wilson, both of Ada, Okla., and Danny Ward, of Oklahoma; grandchildren Alexander Ward, Jordan Ward, Bryan Ward and Rebekah Ward and her two children, of Georgia; nephews, Billy Joe Ward, Ricky and Randy Holman of Oklahoma and Bobby Caldwell, of New Hampshire; any many other family members.

He was loved immensely by both family and friends and he will always and forever be in our hearts.

Note of Thanks

We want to thank everyone for the thoughts, prayers, food, love offering, flowers and visits extended to us during this time of our loss. Special thanks to Rev. Wayne Harjo and Rev. Larry Hawkins, Charlie and Susan Russell, the Chickasaw Nation, Blue Baptist Church at Connerville, Buckeye Baptist Church, of IXL, Okla., First Baptist Church, of Okmulgee and Ada First Indian Baptist Church.

To everyone concerned our hearts are heavy and your acts of service and kindness helped us through this sad time in our lives. Again, thank you from all the families of Leonard Wayne Frazier.

General Resolution Number 30-003In Loving Memory

In loving memory of a dear wife, mother and grandmother, who passed away Nov. 27, 2007.

Five years have passed since the Lord took you home to heaven. Though it was too early for us to lose you, we know you would say it was God's Will. We think about you daily and how blessed we were to have you as a mother, wife, grandmother, and most of all, a friend. What we would give to see your face again, talk to you once more and tell you how much you are missed. Anyone lucky enough to meet you could easily see you were a child of God and it is your unwavering faith that has taught your family and friends to love and trust in the Lord. Your smile put us at ease and your words gave us comfort and taught us to seek hope in tomorrow. We dearly miss those smiles and those conversations.

Though time has passed, we seek solace every day in our memories of you lest we forget how truly lucky we were to have you in our lives. We love you.

From the family and friends of Lela M. Thomas

General Resolution Number 30-006Approval of Development Budget Amendment (Purcell Clinic Expansion)

Explanation: This resolution approves the amendment to the Development Budget for Purcell Clinic Expansion, Project Number CNHS-1004 in the amount of $5,100,000.00.

The existing Purcell Clinic was built in 2002 with an IHS Small Ambulatory Facility grant. The existing facility was designed so a similar sized building could be placed on the site behind the clinic. The proposed addition would provide dental and eye care services as well as a conference room. The eye care space in the existing facility, along with the conference room, would be remodeled to include radiology and additional medical examination rooms.

With the addition and the minor remodeling of the existing space, the Purcell Clinic would be able to provide increased medical ambulatory services, improved eye care services, diagnostic imaging to including mammography and dental services. The facility addition and the remodeling would provide an estimated 17,000 medical care visits, over 7,000 dental visits and serve a user population of over 4,200 Indian people. The renovated and expanded facilities would accommodate 11-12 medical exam rooms and 10-11 chairs for dental services.
